

Let the Workers' Voice Be Heard

The five of us are running in the 2014 elections:

- to let working people express their anger,
- to insist that workers should not pay the cost of the bosses' crisis.

We say, emergency measures are needed:

- to put a halt to ALL unemployment,
- to stop the slide in our standard of living,
- to stop the destruction of public services and schools.

The wealth our labor produces must be taken away from the big banks and companies. It must be used to protect the lives of ordinary people and our children.

We are running to let the voices of working people be heard:

- to say we are fed up with the Democrats and Republicans,
- to say that our needs WILL come first!

Our situation won't be changed with a vote – it will take a fight to stop things from getting worse. And, yes, there is no fight today. But this greedy capitalist class will push workers to fight. A vote for candidates who stand on a fighting program can prepare for the day we do fight. It is the only useful vote.
